Letter Editors

Hi ABSA! We're so excited to put out this issue of the Informer for you guys! It's been a long road that we traveled on, but it feels just like yesterday when we were stressing about shout outs. We can't say we miss bolding all the shout outs but we can say for sure we'll miss all of you guys!

It still feels a bit surreal that this year is coming to an end, for the freshman in us still can't wrap our brains around the fact we won't be fishies anymore. We loved serving as Informer Editors for you guys as it was a huge learning experience for us. It wasn't just a place to up our design game, it was a place to get to know all of you guys better, and for that, we'll take bolding some shout outs any day.

We want to give a huge thank you to those that helped contribute in any form or fashion to the Informer during the year! Deadlines are crazy, they sneak up on you at the last second, and events change quickly sometimes which leaves us having to deal with the changes, and in turn, you guys had to as well. For that, we greatly applaud those that made the Informer not just ours but yours as well! Lastly, we want to give huge shout outs to the media directors – Krystina, Steven, and Sylvia for covering events like a boss, our branch (way too long to list) for always being there for us and having great innovative ideas, and our VP Kelvy who makes Yoda look impatient.

Since this is our last issue, we are happy and sad to see the seniors graduate. But we're sure you guys will end up on a path of your choosing that will take you wherever you feel it should go. For all you returning members, we hope you guys have an amazingly chill (or busy if you like it like that) summer and we're excited to see your faces again next semester!

But now that the year is ending, we only have one hope, the hope that we did indeed exceed your expectations!

Sincerely,

Florence Sung Jessica Lin

Jackson Pei President

Dear ABSA,

Thank you ABSA for the best year of my life. It has been an honor to serve as your 2014-2015 President. First let me start off with, I done goofed plenty of times this year. However, due to our amazing officers, directors, teams, and committees, we have introduced new and creative events that have grown this organization in a way I could never could.

4 years ago, I came into this organization looking to meet a group of friends that I could have fun with through college, but what I found was a family. I hope that you have found that too. ABSA not only provides a family, it provides over 150 events, ranging from professional, philanthropic, personal, and social, which aims to develop our members in all aspects of life.

I speak very highly of ABSA, because it has made me the person I am today. Honestly, I believe ABSA is the best organization on campus. The amount of people we serve every single year is crazy. People that come into our organization have grown to be strong leaders in organizations within UT, and they continue to use those skills that they have developed to become stronger leaders in the workforce.

I am definitely sad to be leaving college and ABSA, it has and probability will be the most fun I will ever have in my life. However, by no means am I leaving ABSA behind. I will come back as a strong alumnus and continue to do what I can to help this organization and its people grow. So you can call me out and use this as a reference, if I am ever inactive or just not doing the best I can to help out.

Finally, I want to say how proud I am of all the progress everyone has made this year. Whether you were an officer, director, team member, committee member, or held no position in ABSA, I hope ABSA has given you what you wanted this year. I encourage everyone to continue their passions in life, whether that be in ABSA or not, but hopefully you don't forget that ABSA will always have a home for you.

For those stepping in as Officers next year, I know you will do great. I know you will continue to grow the organization to be better than it was this year. Trust your fellow officers, rely on each other, work together, and most importantly show us what you got!

Once again, thank you ABSA.

Best,

Jackson Pei

President 2014-2015

Sabeeha Islam Executive VP

would want to have been with this year.

Good Evening ABSA,

I guess before anything else, I really just want to thank all of you for trusting me to represent this family (that's right, family, not organization or company) as an officer and lead the Executive Branch. I couldn't possibly have known when I got elected last year how fun, challenging, memorable, and life-changing this experience would be. And to be perfectly honest, it was made that way because of all of you. You guys trusted me to step up. You guys supported me throughout this year. You guys instilled confidence in me. You guys taught me how to serve. And you guys were the ones who made this entire year worth it.

As this year comes to an end, I am left with one of the most bittersweet feelings. I can't even fathom how fast this year's gone by. But alas all good things must come to an end. But regardless of titles, I shall always be ready to serve ABSA in whatever capacity this family needs.

As I complete this year as your Executive VP, I want to thank a few special people:

Jackson Pei: Oh Captain, my Captain. You say you're a hard person to respect, and yet, after this year, I feel like I should always salute you as my captain, president, mentor, and friend. If the amount of loyalty, kindness, and service you express for people isn't enough for you to believe just how great of a leader you are, then I don't know what else is. Thank you for having my back this year (even though you claim you "didn't do anything"). Thank you for dealing with my aggression this year. Thank you for always listening. And thank you for teaching me what true love for this organization means. Whether you choose to believe me or not, you're a big reason for why I ran for President. So please hear me when I say...Bruh, there is no other leader I

Angela Meng: Angela, I wish I had your level of empathy, understanding, and compassion. I have learned so much from you serving alongside you on the professional pillar of ABSA. Thank you for dealing with the worst of me and still accepting who I am. And of course, thank you for always having my back.

Maria Mai: Sometimes, I wonder if you think I compliment you too much. But in all honesty, you are the type of person who can raise my spirits and generate an inherent ease whenever I feel low. Thank you for respecting my reluctance to touch LOL I'm going to miss you next year when you are abroad. Please keep in touch =(

Anna Chong: Two years later and you still keep me around...I'm going to take that as a good sign that I'm hopefully doing something right. Hahaha but in all honesty, I have loved being by your side, watching you grow, and learning from you too. You say we are all going to leave you some day, but truth be told, I think we are all scared Queen Anna will realize she is better than us peasants and leave us first XD

Kelvin Nguyen: Potato <3

Jennifer Yang: From those late night chats on your couch when you still lived at Quarters to the hand motions to the "poof," you definitely are one of the most derp people ever. LOLOL but I love you immensely for it! I remember being so happy when you decided to run, and now, I'm beyond thankful that I got to serve with you. Stop graduating early and stay with us please. If not, at least visit back during Alumni Weekend!

Jason Guo: EXECTUAL UNITE (but not merge)!!! From that first sponsor acquisition in summer to saving my butt with Case Comp, it's been a great year working with you. I know we don't always see eye to eye, but that is what has made this experience so fun! Thanks for keeping us on track at OMs! And if you ever do wanna make boats and send them down a river, I'll always be down.

Consulting Team Heads: Daniel, Vincent, Jonathan, and Clarissa. I could not have asked for a better group of Team Heads to work with this year. You guys honestly made my job easy. I can tell the commitment you guys have for the team is real, and I'm so happy I had the chance to work with you. For Daniel and Vincent, I hope you guys continue to help out if possible. For Clarissa and Jon, I know you guys will do great leading next year's team. Best of luck to you all!

External Branch 2013-2014: You guys were the first real family I had in ABSA. I wouldn't be here today if it weren't for all of you. Directors: "Do not walk behind me; I may not lead. Do not walk in front of me; I may not follow. Just walk beside me and call me your friend." In my eyes, you are no longer scrubs. You are each strong, resilient leaders who are capable of so much. And most importantly... You are my friends.

Love, Sabeeha Islam Executive Vice President 2014-2015

Angela Meng Professional VP

Dear ABSA,

To be frank, my ABSA story and letter of thank don't and will never quite possibly fit on a page. But for the sanity of the informer editors and the sake of Admin's printing budget, the condensed version goes a little like this:

A girl walked onto the Forty Acres nearly three years ago- lost a lot of quality time with her bed, lost even more battles against the no longer automatic doors of the SAC and got swallowed up into a family of crazy Asians and non-Asians singularly obsessed with free food on Thursdays. Over the course of those three years, she grew up. Life happened for better or for worse and every step of the way there was that same family that offered their shoulder to her every time she cried and offered a hand up every time she stumbled.

At the end of the day, my story could be anyone's story and that's the beauty of it all. Any community will do the same for its members, but I'm just lucky enough that ABSA is mine. It hasn't been easy, but you've all made it a heck of a lot more entertaining. Thank you ABSA, for everything. You all are my strength. You all are the reason why I can get up in the morning, tired and light-headed, but still smiling from wherever I managed to crawl to the night before. Speaking of which...

This letter also serves as an open apology for every McCombs couch, chair or closet I may or may not have inadvertently slept in this year. The same goes to every friend's futon or bed that I crashed on as well. I don't regret staying up late to accomplish the things that I had to do, but I do want to extend an apology to all the roommates I've startled early in the morning on their way to the bathroom.

This year as a whole though, I have no regrets, and that's the least I can offer. The past three years have been a whirlwind, a metaphorical circus, if you will, but I don't regret it a bit.

To all our graduating seniors, I don't envy where you guys are headed, but I envy the courage that you guys will take with you to face the real world. From here on out, you guys will have plenty more battles to fight and many more joys to discover.

For now, take it slow, take it easy. Breath, relax, enjoy. Summer after all has just begun.

Live long and prosper,

Angela Professional Vice President, 2014-2015

Maria Mai Internal VP

Dear ABSA,

Being Internal VP is one of the best decisions I've ever made and I can't believe it is ending. Even though this is probably my hardest year, it was also one of my favorites. Yes, I learned a lot and I gained more skills through this position, but honestly, it's the memories I made with my panel, my branch, and members of ABSA that make this experience worthwhile.

It's funny how much my feelings for ABSA have changed over the past few years. When I was a freshman, I was just a member occasionally going out to events that appealed to me. I remember sitting in one of the GM's and thinking "I'll stay in ABSA for 2 years max and then probably join another organization." It wasn't until the very end of my freshman year (at Spring EOS) that I really started to love ABSA because I realized that the people in this organization really appreciated me for who I am... and that really means a lot to me.

I came back my sophomore year as a family director and had great experience being part of the leadership. Half way into the year, I realized how much I loved ABSA, but for a different reason: because the members were so kind, helpful, and giving, which inspired me to be the same.

After that, I ran for Internal VP because I wanted to help take care of the people in this organization that I cared so much for. How do

I feel now after being an officer? Heh. I love it more than (almost) anyone can imagine. My love hasn't wavered one bit and it's because of the people. I've never been around so many genuinely good people before. ABSA's culture is to be supportive and giving of each other and I hope that culture lives on forever. Lol. I'm such a diehard... and I love it because I'm proud to be in this organization.

Hey Jackson, Sabeeha, Angela, Anna, Kelvin, Jennifer, & Jason,

I won't ever be able to explain how life-changing it was for me to be on the panel with you guys. I can't ever thank you enough for always being there for me whenever I needed y'all. I can never be grateful enough for how much y'all have taught me over this past year. I became a better Maria because of you guys. I've learned the most by just following the great example y'all have set. I love all the $truggleboat2k15 facebook messages about random sh (sorry Anna), the inside jokes, the salt, etc. I love it all. I couldn't have asked for a better group of people to be with than you guys.

P.S. I haven't even left for Austria yet and I can't wait to come back my last semester of senior year to be with ABSA again. <3

Love, Maria Mai

Anna Chong External VP

Dear ABSA,

Thank you allowing me to serve you all as the External VP this year. I know it was scary to trust a little, silly, and naïve sophomore girl to be a leader for such an influential organization, but I thank you for giving me the chance to give it all a try.

It's hard to believe how much of an impact ABSA has had on my own personal growth these past two years, but then again, maybe it isn't that much of a surprise given how impactful ABSA really is. I've learned so much about not only myself but also about you all. I've learned how to be a leader, how to be humble, and even how to play flag football (not well though of course). However, above all, I've learned how to be truly selfless and caring. I believe that the actions of service that you all lovingly show each other are what make this organization tick. I trust that you all will continue to hold each other up and be servant leaders in our ABSA family.

Thank you for being so supportive of me throughout this year. I have truly enjoyed my time serving you all and hope that I was able to bring a little light into each of your lives. One word of advice? Explore all the different aspects of ABSA! There are many lessons to be learned, friendships to be gained, and memories to be made so take advantage of all that ABSA has to offer you.

Jackson Pei: You were an awesome president this year. I appreciate the sacrifices you made for us and for ABSA. Thanks for constantly making us laugh especially when things got tough! No matter what anyone says or thinks, you will always be my favorite Prez. :)

Sabeeha Islam: This year would definitely have been a lot more difficult without you by my side. Thanks for always being so helpful no matter what! I got a lot closer to you this year, and I appreciate everything you've done for me, for our panel, and for ABSA.

Angela Meng: Oh, Angela.. What would I have done without you this year? Underneath your grumpy cat exterior, you really have a heart of gold! Thanks for keeping us safe from troll Jackson and for always caring for us! I know you love us even though you try to put up a front.

Maria Mai: MARIA! This year would have been so boring without you on the panel! I loved every silly and heartfelt moment I had this year with you and would not have had it any other way. Thanks for being such a genuine and kindhearted person! Also, thanks for all the mushy hugs and handholding.

Kelvin Nguyen: Another year, Kelvy! We've gone through a lot together in ABSA, but I'm glad I had you to hold on to all along. I don't know what I would have done without you, and I don't want to find out. :) Thanks for all the talks and the walks! Oh and your jeans hehe love them!

Jennifer Yang: Please don't leave us. : (You're technically not even supposed to! It's been a really good year though getting to know you and working beside you on the panel. Thanks for all the laughs you've given the panel through your derpiness! Let's go on that bread adventure before you leave me forever!

Jason Guo: It's been a wild ride with you Jason boy! I hope you've enjoyed being an officer this year, and we didn't stress you out too much with the monies. Thanks for putting up with our shenanigans and for being such a strong support throughout the year!

Officers: We did it!!!! I'm so proud of all of us for getting through the year. There's a lot that we went through together, but I'm glad I got to experience this wild voyage with you guys! I couldn't have chosen better shipmates! Now, it's time for our beloved ship to set sail~~;) Smell ya later LOSERS.

Kelvin Nguyen

I've lost count of how many times I've tried to start this letter. I've started, erased and repeated so many times that my eyes are now barely open. You can tell I've given up by the fact that these couple of sentences actually made it into this letter ...

I guess this is where I'm supposed to reminisce and talk about what ABSA meant to me. What can I say? I've already said it many times before that ABSA has been my home away from home; my second family. Whenever I uttered those words, they were usually just that, nothing more than words. They became sounds that I simply made out of habit. I realized I started doing so not because those words had lost their meaning, but more so because I didn't want others to see how much I cared for this "student org". It's strange, the idea of people knowing just exactly how much you care about something. It feels almost ... vulnerable. Being a part of this family has meant more to me than anyone will ever know ... and I know I'm not the only one that feels this way.

It's that care that I think has made this year both the most mentally draining and most rewarding for me. Mentally draining not in the sense that I was ever felt stressed or "burnt out", at least not with ABSA, but just in that I could never forgive myself for anything that Administrative VP wasn't perfect or ideal; there was just too much at stake for things not to be. I looked at how things unraveled as I acted as VP and couldn't help but feel so disappointed at everything that I either failed to do or could have easily improved upon. And for that, I can only say sorry.

Every now and then though, I remember to take a couple steps outside of myself and realize that my time here wasn't completely in vain. When I first look at my directors, I feel like the only thing I have to say is an apology, but then I watch them for a little more and realize that they might've actually gotten something out of the year. They've grown so much, and I got to be a part of it, no matter how small that part may actually be. I look at the officer panel and think what a crazy ride this has all been, but then realize my title as anchor was never revoked and that I'm simply thankful to have been a part of this team of people who cared so much for the organization. That no matter how much we differed in our approach, we always agreed that it was simply to help this collection of people we've come to call family. And then I look at this extended family and see the largest group of misfits, scrubs, scrublets and punks that I have ever laid my eyes upon, and realize that my feelings for every single one of you has not changed one bit.

It has truly been an honor serving as your VP and I guess I really just wanted to say thank you for giving me that opportunity.

Jennifer Yang Academic VP

Dear ABSA,

First and foremost, thank you for giving me the opportunity to be your Academic Vice President this year. It's been an honor and my greatest pleasure serving you all, and I can't believe everything is about to come to an end. I've grown so much throughout the year, and I wouldn't be where I am today without all of your endless support and encouragement.

To my branch, I can't thank y'all enough for sharing your year with me. From all of our late night meetings to our crazy long group chat threads, y'all are the best thing to happen to me this year, and I don't know I got so lucky with such an amazing group of directors. Thank you for teaching me how to lead, how to keep pushing through, and most of all, how to keep a straight face (if only for 30 seconds). Each one of you has so much to offer, and I'm honored to have had the opportunity to be your VP this year. Though I won't be pitching my tent in O's anymore, remember that I'll always be just a quick phone call, text, or Facebook message away.

To my panel, it's been one heck of ride, and I don't know who else I would've rather gone swimming in the ocean with. I feel like we had our transition OM two days ago, and our first Interest GM just yesterday. Now, we're about to close out the year. It's been a wonderful, amazing journey with you all, and there is no other way I would have wanted it to turn out. There were more ups and downs than we can keep track of, and as a group we shed quite our share of blood, sweat, and tears, but in the end, I'm glad we all made it out alive.

Jackson: Peisident Pei, it's been a privilege to be a VP under your leadership this year. Your ability to stay calm under pressure and see the bigger picture has really inspired me. Thank you for all of the unwavering support and guidance, both inside and outside of ABSA.

Sabeeha: Sabeehush, no matter how much you like to critique yourself, you've done an amazing job revamping Exec this year. Your branch and your directors have all come so far, and I'm so proud of how much both have grown under your vision and dedication. But remember to sleep sometimes (and by that I mean at normal hours), alright? I think I will now bestow my PTFO crown upon you, because, let's admit it, you deserve it way more than I do.

Angela: Fried butter buddy and fellow fort lover, I would never have thought when we first met two years ago at OU Weekend that we would end up spending the following year on the officer panel together. Thank you for all the friendship, laughter, and late-night feels chats I'll never forget. Though we've had our disagreements, I'm glad we always come back together in the end.

Maria: Thank you for always having such a positive attitude! No matter the situation, I can always count on you to remind me of the bright side every time. You're such a caring and loyal friend, and I'm so happy we got to spend the year leading ABSA together. I hope you have a wonderful time in Vienna, and I can't wait to hear all about it when you get back!

Anna: My fellow bread-lover! Though we came into the year probably knowing each other the least, I'm so glad we've grown so much closer since August. Sorry we only got to really spend a year together, but I promise I'll come back to visit often! And then everyone else will join me and Jacksonian at the end of next year;)

Kelvin: Potato. No more words needed.

Jason: Broski, thanks for all the car rides and endless supply of chocolate this year! But actually though, I'm so grateful for all of your support and encouragement through everything. You've definitely challenged me and pushed my skills to the next level, and I'm so glad I was able to discover just how far I could stretch with your help.

To the new panel, I'm so proud of you all and how far y'all have come. Get excited for all that the next year will bring, both the successes and the challenges. You will grow in ways you didn't think possible, and I challenge y'all to push each other to new limits. Explore the unknown, and don't be afraid to take risks. But most of all, don't forget to support each other as a team, ask for help when you need it, and have fun!

These past two years, I've spent hours upon hours in meetings, countless sleepless nights on the fifth floor of McCombs, and probably more class time doing ABSA work than actual classwork. But I would never trade these experiences for the world. Because ABSA has also given me unforgettable memories, lifelong friendships, and a home away from home. I've learned the true meaning of selflessness, of community, and of loyalty. Thank you for one of the best years of my life, ABSA.

Love, Jennifer Yang Academic Vice President, 2014-2015

Jason Guo Financial VP

Dear ABSA:

When I stepped onto this campus for the first time, I made a resolution with myself that I was going to change. I didn't know how or in what way, but I knew that I wanted to do it. Little did I know that I would find that in ABSA.

When I first signed up for Financial VP, I thought I knew what I was doing and who I was serving. It took me a while to realize I didn't, but that's okay. I found that the people I was serving in ABSA meant much more to me than I expected. It has been an absolute pleasure being the Financial VP this year and having the opportunity to support ABSA, its members, and what this organization stands for. I'll be honest – not everything was smooth throughout the year. There have been those rough times where I really question what my purpose in ABSA was. I have fallen to my knees more than once. Fortunately, I have since been able to realize that it's all about serving you, the members of ABSA. As I gave more and more of myself to this organization, it meant more and more to me. I will remember the smiles and laughs that I have shared with you and hold it near to my heart. It's been a crazy year, but I don't regret a single minute of it.

As I step down from the role of VP, I look back and remember the people who have been helping me grow me all along. To my officers, thank you for dealing with my incompetence, my temper, and my awkwardness. I am incredibly grateful to have had a panel that was willing to talk to me into rationality and mentor me into a better person. To my directors, thank you for challenging me to improve in being both mentor and friend. Without you, I wouldn't have moved as far along. To other directors, thank you for being positive and dealing with my bullying. Finally, to my upperclassmen and alumni, thank you for giving me advice and for being priceless mentors.

A piece of advice as I leave: Take the risk. I can't stress this enough. I was never ready for being a VP, but I have appreciated every single one of my mistakes. With failure comes wisdom, and now, carrying that wisdom, I can continue to succeed later on. I have loved the opportunity to grow as a person, and I hope that you can find the same enjoyment in it as I have.

I look forward to what the new panel has in store for next year. I can't wait to be a part of their stories, to continue learning from them, and to put that into my heart. I hope that you can join me in doing so as well. After all, we are "one ABSA".

Thank you for everything ABSA.

Best regards, Jason Guo Financial VP 2014-2015

Academic GM

Macy Huang

Brains, wits, and wagers were tested at the inaugural ABSA Academic GM. This year was the first time ABSA has seen the Acedemic Branch holding a GM. With the intention to help kick off Academic's "Bring Recognition and Gratitude" on McCombs Faculty and Staff Week, the GM featured exciting games of Wits and Wagers and Who's Who.

After doing research on the amazing resources and breadth of UT's McCombs School of Business, we put together a version of the award-winning game, Wits and Wagers. Members had a great time guessing the startling numbers of McCombs-related statistics. How many night staff members are there? 11. How many full-time faculty members does McCombs employ? 186. The idea was to give members a look into the true scope of McCombs and open their eyes to the community of academia, success, and dedication around them.

Next, we had fun guessing faculty member profiles based on interesting facts we collected by interviewing professors. Who knew that some of our McCombs professors are licensed pilots or have performed at Carnegie Hall? There is so much more to every McCombs professor, and every professor at UT for that matter, than what we can observe from solely sitting in their lectures. We encourage everyone to get to know their professors, and who knows-- you might just discover that you're both into bird photography.

Austin Panic Room

Steven Yen

It's not often we get local start-ups to host a professional GM. It's even less often that some of the founders of those startups haven't even graduated yet. Today, the founders of Austin Panic Room came in and talked to us about their experiences starting the company and how they grew. This involved financing the company using their internship money, leasing a house, creating clues, and constructing the rooms inside the building. They were very 'real' about everything they said, describing the immense time commitment and dedication it took to get the company off the ground. This was especially difficult because of the school work. There were many times when they questioned whether or not it was worth going on, but today Austin Panic Room is continuing to grow not only in Austin, but also in other cities like San Antonio.

After talking about their experiences, they opened the floor for any questions. As students or as recent graduates, this group was able to provide good insight into the real world from a perspective similar to ours. Like many others, they shared how mostly only the soft skills they had learned from school benefited them - skills involving communication, teamwork, and project management. This encouraged me to continue to be involved with extracurriculars that would help develop these skills with organizations like ABSA!

CHARITY SERVICE AUCTION

Christina Lien

As most of you know, ABSA members are very multi-talented. Some are very skilled artists, others are great cooks, and some have great athletic abilities. On April 9th, ABSA members auctioned off these skills as services for other ABSA members to purchase. A few services that were auctioned off include baking cookie cakes to sell, teaching members how to make cheesecake, making cards and canvases to sell, making care packages for finals week, cooking a 5-course meal, teaching members how to dance, and playing basketball and tennis. This event was led by ABSA's financial directors, Russell Kan and Alex Hui. Utilizing a "Saturday Night Live" theme, they were able to pump up the ABSA members and motivate them to purchase these services for a good cause. What was the cause? All the profits went toward the March of Dimes, an organization that helps babies and moms everywhere. The charity service auction was a huge success, and ABSA was able to raise over $1200 for the organization. At the end of the night, everyone was satisfied from being able to purchase these services for a good cause, while laughing and bonding with other ABSA members at the same time.

FAMILY TALENT SHOW

Sylvia Yang

Lights, Camera, AC-TION. The Family Talent Show turned out to be much more than I expected: it was a hilarious display of unorganized rap battles, semi-decent lip syncing, and classic throwback dances. We even got a free live show from Big Chen, and saw Joseph get roasted by Mylan's rap. We got rained on by sweets, and humored with cheesy puns.

The families seemed to be evenly matched, with the exception of Woohoo! They took home first place with a well-prepared performance. My family, The One With__, ended up taking home the "Most Creative" award with our casual rap battle.

And with the final words "Family directors—out!", we wrapped off our last Family GM. It's been a great year, from smashing unboiled eggs to cross-dressing our top models. We've shoved too many things down our mouths: from cupcakes to ice cream sandwiches. We've made a lot of great memories, and it's all thanks to the hard work of our Family directors Brian and Julia.

General Meetings

Pie-an-Officer Brian Kim

PIES. PIES. AND MORE PIES. So many whipped cream pies were mushed into the officers faces while members had fun getting revenge for all the things the officers had done to them. Volunteering directors, Sang-Yop Kwon and Alex Zou, did a great job raising money for March for Dimes. Ultimately, ABSA as a whole raised $293 to donate while having the most fun ever. Everyone lining up to buy the pie tickets in anticipation, and then moved on to the next station where we picked up our ammunition. Grabbing the pies felt like we had the fate of our officers in our hands. Standing in line to smash the pies in their faces... oh man the wait was almost over. Finally, the moment we had all been waiting for. It felt like all our pent up rage and vengeance was about to be released. Then BAM. Members pied officers left and right. Some were fast and aimed at their face while other pies were smeared all over the head and hair (except Maria's). Overall, all the members and officers had tons of fun and the GM was a great success! Great job External!

HIS COOK CHIL

Oh. My. God. Face-book. You know that website you say you're only on like 30 minutes a day but actually has taken over your ENTIRE life and its' really the only way you communicate with people or see the outside of your room nowadays? Yeah, we went there, like the office, and met Mark Zuckerberg.

OK fine, we didn't REALLY meet Mark Zuckerberg, but we did get a snazzy tour of the office (which had a gourmet restaurant, hella nice decorations, AND a basketball court (like waaaaaat (parenthetical inception...parenception!!))) We met some really amazing people from all different lines of business in Facebook who gave us an in-depth picture of the business side of the company (and tbh, that's pretty much just as good as meeting good ol' Zucky, and maybe even better, depending on how you felt about "The Social Network"). But the best part of Facebook CFT will always be the food, they feed us what they serve employees, plus any snacks that are available. I personally stole...I mean accepted 2 teas, an entree, some protein bars, and some delicious coffee flavored ice cream...yum.

After our hosts finished informing us with as much information as possible we searched for the perfect place to take a picture, in which yours truly mermaid posed beautifully. All in all it was a wonderful trip and I would recommend it to anyone else if they are able to visit in the future.

P.S. if you see Elizabeth (aka Liz aka Lizard aka Elly) please make fun of her for getting locked in the stairwell.

Gigglepants Workshop & Mixer

Get ready to giggle your pants off, because ABSA held a Gigglepants workshop and put their improv skills to the test. On Saturday, March 28th, Gigglepants performers and ABSA members came together and had a short but sweet mixer. It started off with a couple performances by Gigglepants as they played various improv games among themselves and did not fail to make ABSA laugh. And boy, did we laugh hard. Everybody was then broken off into small groups each led by a Gigglepants performer. They would then rotate through each small group and have them play short improv games. The games required everybody to act, rhyme, make weird noises, do odd hand motions, and most importantly, use their imagination. After the small groups finished their rotations, everybody got back together and asked for volunteers to play more improv games in front of the whole audience. It was taught that there are no mistakes in improv and that one should always go with the flow. Improv is all fun and games, and it is perfectly okay to mess up. When it came time to wrap things up, ABSA members bid goodbye to the Gigglepants performers as they scurried out in their typical Gigglepants fashion. It was a one-of-akind workshop that ABSA members like to always call their favorite out of the whole year.

Spring Networking Reception

Interested in entrepreneurship? Have an innovative idea that you want to implement? This year, the Spring Networking Reception focused on how to develop an entrepreneurial mindset and featured speakers from the Austin startup community.

The networking reception began with a panel of three startup owners that included ABSA's very own Zulian Tjuatja representing ForeverCard, Jeff Zhao of Jackrabbit Mobile, and Rachel Smith, owner of Pride Socks. The panel answered questions and spoke in detail to members about the idea behind their startups, the challenges they faced, and the advice they would give to those interested in starting their own company.

In particular, Zulian spoke about how he got involved in his startup after a classmate from his freshman UGS course contacted him a year later and how they had to teach themselves new skills to implement the project. Jeff talked about how he worked a corporate job until he decided to follow his interests and commit to a startup, and Rachel gave insight to her life as a sole business owner trying to juggle multiple tasks at once.

After the panel portion of the event, attendees broke off into three groups for an interactive activity with each speaker leading a respective group. Our group was led by Jeff from Jackrabbit Mobile. For the activity, our task was to simulate a start-up pitch. Using Dropbox as an example, Jeff walked the group through how a start-up pitch worked by hearing us brainstorm and delegating different tasks—such as pitch intro, a situational story, explaining what Dropbox can offer, determining target audience, etc.

Overall, the Spring Networking Reception was a great event. It was fun to finish off with an engaging activity that got you thinking, and it was interesting to hear about the experiences of and advice from these three awesome entrepreneurs!

in a casual setting. One professor even claimed that the lunch "made her year"! Friday wrapped up the week's events with signed thank you cards from ABSA, distributed by the hardworking members of Academic Branch to each faculty member's mailbox.

Overall, BRAG week went well and faculty and staff (in turn) appreciated ABSA's acts of appreciation. We received lots of positive feedback, and we enjoyed being able to honor the hard work of those who make it possible for students to thrive in this great institution.

BRAG Week

Behind McCombs' consistently high rankings is a group of hardworking and experienced educators. This year, ABSA expressed appreciation for their mentorship and dedication by hosting BRAG—Bring Recognition and Gratitude—on McCombs Faculty and Staff week. Throughout the week of March 30-April 3, various events were planned each day as just a small token of our appreciation.

Starting off the week's events was Build-a-Breakfast, where ABSA laid out a free breakfast for faculty in the faculty/staff lounge.

Beginning bright and early at 7AM, faculty slowly came trickling in to choose from a selection of pastries, muffins, oatmeal and bananas. Tuesday's event provided goodie bags filled with rice krispy treats and Reese's peanut butter cups tied up with ribbon and a note for the McCombs faculty. On Wednesday, ABSA hosted Atrium After Hours, an event specifically for the McCombs staff who stay odd hours to clean up after the hustle and bustle of a typical busy day. This year, one of the goals for faculty/staff appreciation week was to put more of an emphasis on staff, who are sometimes overlooked, and go out of our way to recognize their hard work. By giving the 11 night staff goodie bags filled with more rice krispy treats and Reese's, we did just that! Thursday's Greet and Eat event provided a free lunch for all faculty and staff members. Additionally, ABSA members/students were invited to eat and mingle with professors for just $1. Greet and Eat aimed to display appreciation for faculty in a more meaningful way by engaging ABSA members and McCombs students

Social Dance Workshop Jimmy Nguyen

We were all congregated in the Shirley Bird ballroom. The glossy dance floor and the spaciousness of the room made it a perfect place for learning how to dance! Who wouldn't want to learn how to dance? It's awesome! On top of being awesome, we get to collaborate with SLOSH, a social dance organization on UT. We started off the workshop with a short and simple East Coast swing lesson. It's one of the simplest dances to learn. On top of that, the music is very jazzy and exciting. It's a dance full of energy! We rotated partners consistently every few minutes because it's important to dance with just anybody! You can dance with everyone in the room and it's great! The lesson took about thirty minutes, so we had plenty of time to dance with absolutely anyone afterwards. About an hour and a half into the workshop, we moved to the center of the dance floor to learn a line dance. The line dance is called Footloose. It's one of the songs from the movie, and it's pretty awesome to dance to as well. Being on beat and doing the exact same thing as everyone else made us feel larger than life. On top of the dance, there were many people who just did their own variation and added their own pizzazz.

Dancing is a way to express yourself and your style. The workshop provided me and many other people with an opportunity to participate in such a great activity.

ABSA & UBC Case Competition

On April 18th, UBC and ABSA co-hosted the highly anticipated Mc-Combs Spring Case Competition. This year, we had 21 amazing teams tackle the case presented by Accenture: based on the strengths and weaknesses of each company, how would you propose Halliburton and Baker Hughes merge and what outcomes would you drive? Immediately after kickoff, teams began the intense case competition routine by working hard and staying up On the Tuesday of that week, some Samantha Choi teams came out to the presentation and financial analysis workshops led by upperclassmen, Robert Ma and Klevrin Sitohang. The next day, we hosted a company Q&A call session with Accenture representatives and teams were able to ask detailed questions regarding the companies and case. Before everyone knew it, it was already the night before the competition. Teams were hustling to finalize their slide decks and sharpen their presentations. At 11:50 PM, teams were lining up for midnight munchies from Pluckers, Mozarts, and cans of Monster. On competition day, judges and teams starting rolling in from 7:00 AM. Teams turned in their final presentations, ate some breakfast, and went to the opening ceremony. Preliminary presentations began at 8:35 AM and only one team from each room would go on in the competition. After prelims, lunch was served and the finalists were announced. Claris Consulting, Delta Consulting, Kaan & Associates, Outreach Consulting, and Synergy Solutions were chosen to compete in the final round. Outreach consulting won first place with a $1600 prize, the second place prize of $1000 went to Kaan & Associates, and Claris Consulting took third, winning $400.

In the end, the competition was remarkable. The hard work from the directors, committee members, and officers paid off and everyone gained valuable experience and takeaways.

"Imagine the audience in their underwear" is advice often given to public speakers before a big speech. However, after attending the Speak Easy Workshop, "Imagine the audience as toddlers or old people" is more appropriate advice.

When I saw the Speak Easy Workshop event announcement, I was interested to see what kind of tips the speaker had to offer. Public speaking, one of America's biggest fears, cause many people severe anxiety, and I was interested in learning more about handling public-speaking nervousness and overcoming anxiety.

The last workshop of the year featured Melissa Murphy, a UT graduate and founder of a communication consulting firm called the Pitch Academy. Melissa talked to us about overcoming communication anxiety and learning how to overcome fear of public speaking. She offered many useful tips on how to prepare for a big speech and what to do and not to do.

For example, Melissa stressed the importance of not memorizing a speech verbatim. Although memorization may sound simpler, it can be the downfall of a speaker's speech, as forgetting one word can result in forgetting the entire speech, consequently causing potentially painful and awkward situations. Rather, knowing a general outline of what you want to say can help you in preventing blanking out and nervousness in your speech.

She also advised taking deep breaths before a speech, and showed us how to take subtle breaths before starting a speech in order to calm yourself and slow down your heart rate. During the speech, take things slow rather than fast. People with public-speaking anxiety often speak extremely fast, but slowing your words can have a positive effect on your performance.

Body language is important as well, and Melissa showed us how to be relaxed and walk around the room when speaking in front of a crowd. She also said that to curb anxiety, look for and make eye contact with people around the room who you know are rooting for you and supporting you.

The Speak Easy Workshop taught me some interesting tips for improving public speaking that I will definitely try to incorporate when I have a speech or announcement to prepare for. It was an informative and engaging last workshop to end the school year!

Mind Over Matter by florence sung

Walking into a Feed Your Mind meeting was like having someone slap some sense into you. Because you think you already know everything about it, when, in reality, you don't. Feed Your Mind is not the event you just went to get free food last semester. You quickly realize that this event requires a lot more people than you previously thought. Then you follow up that thought with the understanding that each member is part of a cycle of committee members, but always one that is seeking to improve.

"The committee tries and gets various donations from various vendors and then they do logistical stuff, publicity stuff, basically they do a lot," Project Manager Johnny Vo said. "This semester they're doing a lot more. Every semester we try to improve it more, tweak it a bit, but overall, it's pretty similar every semester"

This semester the committee is planning on continuing their incorporation of study tips into the event as well as adding a photo booth. In addition, the committee is planning on continuing their incorporation of academics through tabling by campus resources like the Sanger Learning Center. Last semester, many of tablers were daunted by the amount of students that came to Feed Your Mind. However, this semester gives them an opportunity to be better prepared for the influx of students.

"There are always things that can be improved and with improvements, there are always going to be challenges," Project Manager Karen Shang said. "One the biggest difficulties we had last semester was we didn't organize volunteer shifts very well. We did it by time slots, but in between the time slots people serving found it really hard to leave > and have someone to replace them since the line's continuous. So this year, rather than making time slots, making it setup, serving, and clean up to have a clear divide on volunteering."

This semester, the Feed Your Mind committee is expecting 1000 people to attend. These people will be attracted by restaurant vendors and free paraphernalia. At current estimates, the committee has more vendors than last semester.

"The vendors get a chance to table and interact with students and the staff to build relationships," Vo said. "In addition to hearing back and getting publicity, they get a chance to establish their relationships. At the same time we're helping to connect the UT community and give back."

Leading up to the event, the members first contact vendors asking if they want to donate food to this cause. After confirming vendors, some move onto logistics and publicity, but altogether all members learn new skills.

"For a lot of the members, I just hope they get more comfortable speaking strangers with authority because most of the people they talk to are owners of food trucks or managers," Shang said. "Just being comfortable talking with those kind of people and learning the communication skills"

Keep Austin Beautiful

by kimberly young

Running down the streets of Austin, ABSA members on separate sides of the street and on separate teams, compete against each other to see which team can keep Austin beautiful the fastest. With a glove on one hand and a trash picker in the other, members of team one and two (the better team:P) were ready to show down.

This is my first time volunteering with ABSA and I naively assumed it would be a slow morning of picking up trash and helping clean the streets of Austin. Instead, it was a fast, fun and friendly/fierce competition between the two teams. It was hilarious. Everyone was given an adjective before their name to act like. On team two there was Jealous Jason, Salty Sang-Yop, Fabulous Flo, Jolly Julia, Adventurous Alec, Loud Lisa and Kind Kimberly (me). Jealous Jason hurried us along with the intent to make it to the finish point first. Sang-Yop, who was supposed to be acting salty, was failing and being nice—gosh. Flo was definitely fabulous, as she took photographs of everybody.

Everyone was having fun together while doing their part in keeping our city of Austin a beautiful place to live. By the end of it we had collected four bags of trash, and Adventurous Alec found twenty dollars that he decided to generously donate to external branch to buy supplies for future volunteering events.

Afterwards, some of us who volunteered needed to get back to campus, while others stayed to eat lunch. On our way back, team two members scrutinized team one's performance. Sure they did a good job picking up trash and cleaning up their side of the street, but it was nothing compared to the squeaky clean, gorgeous sun lit path team two had transformed their side into:P.

Seriously though it was a beautiful job that we all did together, and I truly enjoyed it. ^-^

Capital Area Food Bank

by sang-yop kwon

On Saturday, April 18, ABSA volunteered at the Capital Area Food Bank. While there, we participated in the Reclamation Project, in which we went through tons of food and sorted out the good from the bad food.

One interesting point about this project is that the majority of the food that we sorted through was bad. In one instance, one of the workers picked up three random cans from a box, trying to make a point that all three were most likely going to be waste. He was right.

As our members stood alongside other volunteers from the Austin community, we worked diligently for three hours. In the end, we had packaged almost 3000 pounds of food, which equated to almost 2200 meals in the community!

In all honesty, my job was not that intensive....

So I was a media director for the day! Jimmy was gracious enough to let me borrow his camera, and I snap snap snapped away!

After the work was done, we all went to Cabo Bob's, where Maria showed us that she could eat like a champion. As she took her final bite of her burrito, cheers went up from the table! I'm proud of you mom.

All in all, it was a great day of volunteering, and I was happy to know that ABSA had made a difference in the community.

Ice Cream Making Social

cream with an endless assortment of toppings was a whole different level of fun.

Some of the bags were defective and dripped all the ingredients around the floor, but it lightened the mood and laughs were to be had.

Not only was making the ice cream fun, but we also got legit ice cream at the end of the event. Ice cream on ice cream guys. Seriously.

Ice cream, good music, and good company were all that was necessary for a fun social!

CSA Lantern Festival

by emily fu

The CSA Lantern Tabling at the CSA Lantern Festival was a ton of fun! The festival, hosted by the Chinese Student Association, touted free food, games, entertainment, and raffle prizes. I decided to go and see what the hype was about, and I ended up really enjoying myself.

ABSA had a table at the lantern festival, and when I approached the table, I was handed a paper airplane and told to throw it, with the goal to knock down a paper cup pyramid in order to win a raffle ticket. As usual, my aim was terrible, but with a little help from Sang-Yop, who was manning the table, the paper airplane miraculously refound its aim and hit the tower, and I was awarded a raffle ticket (hehe). These tickets would come in handy throughout the night, when raffles were held in between performances and prizes such as gift cards and a ipad mini were awarded.

I was also extremely excited for the free Chinese food they offered. Thankfully, I was one of the first people in line and didn't have to wait too long! After eating, I checked out the booths and played some interesting games. During this time, performances were going on as well. I enjoyed the wide amount of talent I saw! Some of my favorite performances included the Texas Dragon/Lion Dance team, which put on an traditional dragon dance seen at most lantern festivals; Texas Wushu, which entertained the crowd with a Mulan-inspired routine, and Redefined Dance Company, wowing the crowds with some cool hip-hop moves.

All in all, it was an enjoyable night with some wonderful food, performances, games and some great tabling from ABSA. I'll definitely check out the festival again next year, and sign up for ABSA tabling too while I'm at it!

Forty Acres Fest Tabling by sang-yop kwon Two a bat arms of the sang-yop kwon

It was a hot summer day, and as I traversed the Forty Acres, I thought I was done for... As I took my final step in front of the glorious tower, I fell.... As I awoke, I saw a dark figure descend upon me, and then I could only see a winter wonderland... As I took the first bite, the taste of fresh fruit mixed with milk and cool ice and blasted my taste buds. As I rose up from the ground, feeling energized and strong, I donned my uniform and scooped the first spoon of ice. Then came the fresh strawberries and the cocktail fruits. Finally, as I drizzled the condensed milk, channeling my inner artisan, I handed out the first glorious cup...

As our Asian Business student dessert chefs distributed our 6 star grade shaved ice deserts, we enjoyed the company of our fellow UT organizations.

As the day continued, various artists performed, giving the environment a very festive mood.

A few notable performances were those given by Ra Ra Riot and Small Pools.

At the end of the day, I was proud of all of the volunteers who came out to support ABSA in our efforts to serve premium shaved ice. Until next year Forty Acres Fest!

Alumni Workshop & Dinner

by phillip yoon

The Alumni Workshop is such a great event to attend.

Every alumni that attends comes with unique experiences from the past and valuable advice for current students that will hopefully help us avoid any mistakes or regrets they may have come across.

At the workshop, we had Sam Lehardi, Zifeng

Wang, and Hans Malzar come and speak to us about what they did in ABSA and what they are currently doing right now in the real world.

One thing that stood out for me was that every alumni spoke about how hard it was to hang out with your friends once you start working in the real world. After hearing that, it made me realize to enjoy my time here at college because once we graduate, it won't be as easy as running into your friend and randomly hanging out.

Soon after receiving valuable insight from the alumni, we proceeded to go to Buffet Palace and I guarantee you that everyone ate more than their money's worth. At Buffet Palace, our converarrived at Ethan's base a couple of hours prior to the start of Alumni Crawsations with the alumni were more light-hearted, ranging from Pokemon to bulking tips.

After making several beautifully swirled ice cream cones and drinking Jackson's simple but yet surprisingly tasty orange-flavored water, we all proceeded to go home, ending yet another successful and insightful ABSA event.

Alumni Weekend Crawfish Boil

by jeffery hung

"The rancid smell of my brothers and sisters as they were scorched alive, forming a mountain of crimson corpses, that day still burns deep in my soul. How could I ever forget it? That was the day that I made a choice – a choice to shed my life and become an avenger. "

-Pug the Crawfish, Sole Survivor of the Alumni Weekend Crawfish Boil

Alumni Weekend! I missed out on most of the actual event, but from what I heard, it turned out to be quite the success! There were loads of crawfish and onion and corn and potato!

Where was I? I was cooking preparing the food! A group of us had fish Boil to help cook the over 120 pounds of live crawfish that we bought for the event.

It was dirty. It was messy. It was crawling with crawfish escapees! In the end, we tossed all the crawfish, except one, into these big metallic pots to be roasted and delivered them to the REC center to be consumed.

Members ate. Alumnis ate. I ate. Good times.

ABSA Birthday Party

by amanda shang

Everyone remembers that iconic moment during GM when Jeffery Hung clasped his hands around his mouth and said "Hey guys! Come out to ABSA's Birthday Party!" in the most adorable way ever.

His promotion techniques proved to be super effective when a huge swarm of members showed up on the day of. Gathering in a circle, Jeffrey explained the first game, where we had to catch another "dragon's" tail while protecting our own.

Teams split up and the game began! Before we knew it, teams were collaborating with one another to team up against others, and everyone ended up falling over with laughter.

For the second game, a pair was given an animal sound to make, and they had to close their eyes and find their other half. The game began as people passing by gave chuckled at our strange behavior. Pairs quickly matched up and dashed toward the finish line.

After an exciting day under the hot sun, we all migrated to the GSB Events Room to enjoy refreshing drinks and childhood snacks! Oh, the nostalgia.

Members shoveled fruit roll-ups, rice crispy treats, goldfish, and candy into their mouths as they gathered around tables to play even more nostalgic board games such as Taboo and Monopoly.

At the end, the officer brought in a giant cake, and we all sang happy birthday to ABSA. Then the cake wars started, and everyone ran for their lives.

IM ULTIMATE FRISBEE

by andrew tran

Every Spring ABSA participates in Ultimate Frisbee IMs. They go out to the fields to throw and catch frisbees.

The athletic directors Ginnie and Phillip put in a lot of their time to put on practices in order to assemble the best avengers, I mean frisbee team possible to represent ABSA.

Lead by the ladies of ABSA, the frisbee team has managed to make playoffs again, for the third year in a row!

But wait... there's more! It wouldn't be called Ultimate frisbee if it were that simple. As the ladies carry the men through the tournament, the men can't help but to try their best to show out.

Lead by highlights such as Brian Kim making godly diving catches to great defensive plays by Tri and Alvin.

The whole experience is fun to be a part of, even if by spectating. We look forward to supporting them through the rest of playoffs!

IM BASKETBALL

by phillip yoon

Basketball is an amazing team sport; whether you're playing for the first time or playing for years, there is always a way to elevate your performance in the game.

With four teams competing for a championship title for ABSA, there was a large group of players with varying levels of playing experience.

Despite the lack of playing experience, every member of the team showed dedication to improving their basketball skills, displaying an important trait that every player needs in order to be great.

Playing throughout the season was not easy; some days, the team would play their hardest but in the end it wouldn't be enough. However, every team greatly improved and they displayed it on the court.

In the first games for every team, the players played with a sense of nervousness and uncertainty about their teammates and themselves.

By the end of the season, however, the players was able to advance to playoffs. With playoffs, everything becomes much more intense and the game you thought you knew feels entirely different.

A trait of any good team is the ability to played with confidence and genuinely seemed to enjoy playing with each other which allowed the teams to play a higher quality of basketball.

Unfortunately, with a couple of losses for both men's teams and one coed team, only one team adapt, and the co-ed team that made it to playoffs proved to have that trait. After several intense games, ABSA once again found themselves in the championship game in a rematch against VSA.

Although the team put their best foot forward,

VSA came out on top in a very close game. Usually, a loss in the championship game would bring nothing but gut-wrenching pain. However, seeing all of the fans cheering for ABSA even after the loss helped me realize just playing the beautiful game of basketball for a wonderful organization is a reward in itself.

I am truly thankful to have coached four amazing and dedicated teams and I look forward to ABSA making a run at a championship title again in the future.

Andrew Huang: I found that packet of scorpion peppers in my purse the other day. I'm not entirely sure what to do with them...On the other hand, you should be back in Austin by graduation >:]

Andrew Tran: I love how blissed out all of you were from going to Perry's! It's quite the experience and I'm glad you had a really great time there. I'm also really happy we had the chance to sit down and have a good brown bag at Madam Mam's!

Angela Wu Li: Hello Angela! I'm sad we haven't talked that much this semester, but I want the world to know that the Angela sandwich will forever be superior to the Jason sandwich. Everyone else who begs to differ, can fight me.

Audra Fields: Thanks for all the great work you do for PubCo! I'm really in awe of your talent and just how cool you are in general!

I'm sad things didn't work out, and I think of all the weird and fun times we could have had u_ Brian Kim: Great job with Family Field Day! All the families this year have lived some sort of Running Man realness, but with less shouting in Korean and less punishment games (thankfully LOL). you're there to bail our butts out of danger on any

Christina Lien: Great job on EOS! You guys all looked so cute in the promo video.

David Yu: Congrats on making Punjabbawockeez!!!! I'm so proud of yuuuuuuuu!

Diane Sun: I really love all the drawings you did of us during the Family GM. The animals were really detailed and realistic! I loved that you turned your entire "officer for a day" panel into Pusheen <3 Dora Cheng: I will crack pecans open with my bare hands for you any day of the week, just saying Thank you for always keeping your doors open wide for me and Kelvin to crash at. I'm still sad that I haven't won #1 for trash-take out on the scoreboard, but hey. I still did pretty well! I'm never gonna be able to thank you enough for all the support and love you've given me throughout the years tbh, but thank you. Thank you so much. Elvis Yang: I can't believe you couldn't make it to the steak-massage day at Perry's and you were the one who suggested the time!! We'll find some other time to re-schedule I suppose haha :P Emily Fu: Great job on all the socials this year with Veronica! I'm really glad that you and Rebecca came to Dallas CFT with us! Eric Allen: The prank you guys pulled with the apps was cute. I'm a skeptic at heart, but even I bought it for at least the first few minutes. Well played. Eric Ma: Swole booty bunch... Woo-bang never really stood a chance at tug-o-war, did we? Ethan Ho: I had a great time cooking crawfish with Grace Liu: Tell me again, what team does Michael Jordan play for?????? Haha, sorry for the teasing, but it was just too funny that day!

Hannah Kang: It hit me the other day that you and I are basically in a love triangle with the futon in your apartment. I swear you sleep on that thing more often than I do and you even /have/ a bed in your own apartment! Haha. Thank you for all the late night talks, all the morning breakfast love, and all the concern and guidance you've given me in the Helen Lee: Not sure if you're gonna read this, but just know that I don't know how I would have survived the year without you. Scratch that...not just this year, but every year. Thank you so much for everything and count on me to swing by Houston sometime and crash in on you and Jennifer!

Helena Shi: Helena <3 <3 <3 I haven't seen much of you since NYCFT ended, but I hope you're doing

Hoai Truong: SOCIAL DIRECTORS. WE BACK. I'm so so happy that you've been so active this year! Just seeing you makes my day brighter by miles. I'm really excited for what we have in store for our senior class next year hehehe. It's going to be a blast! Huyen Tran: Family field day was really fun with you guys. At one point I realized it was you, me, and Nina screaming at each other and making fun of Jackson and I thought things don't really that much after all haba

Ima Linzag: You did such a great job with Pubco this year! I think back sometimes to how far you, David and I have come since we met at Leadershape back in freshman year and wow, it's been a really long time. I know you're super busy, but let's grab lunch sometime!

Jane Zeng: Great job on EOS! The three of you put in so much hard work to make it all happen. Just relax now and enjoy what you're hard work has created!

Janet Zhou: Thank you for cooking us all such delicious food at the Professional Branch reunion! I think it's callously ironic that my first EOS was spent watching you pass the candle down to the next professional vp and now your last EOS will consist of you watching me pass the candle down to the next profesh vp...such a bookend. I can't tell you how grateful I am of you and how much you've done for me these past three years. I will miss you terribly, and even though we don't talk as regularly as I'd like to, I know we can always reach out to each other in times of need.

Jany Xu: JANYYYYYY. The end of the school year and your graduation means nothing to me, because you're going to be with me in Dallas every single day until I forget that we're not actually in Austin anymore and that you've graduated T_____T Jason Wu: Hello! I can't believe that you still come early to GMs somedays ;;;;; how does admin always do it T_____T

Jeannette Tang: I really enjoyed getting to spent time with you and all the others at Perry's! Jeff Su: You making burrito sushi wraps with Janet's food was pretty funny not gonna lie. The whole profresh reunion brought back a lot of fond memories. I wish you luck after college!

Jeff Fong: I'm really glad we got to see you again at the Profresh reunion. It really brought back a lot of memories! Good luck with your application to the police force and please keep in touch!

Jessica McCarthy: I'm really sorry that we didn't manage to make it out and support the soccer team for Business World Cup! I'm really sorry and I wish I could make it up to you guys someway T____T Jessica Lin: I had so much fun cooking crawfish Jessica Lin: I had so much fun cooking crawfish with you and the rest of Admin!

Jessie Chan: I still think the funniest moment of Jessie Chan: I still think the funniest moment of the basketball season was still the moment where Kristeen hurt her ankle and everyone started panicking, but then you just swooped out of nowhere like Batman and picked her straight up off the ground! The signs you guys made for Phillip's track meet were also super cute!

Jimmy Nguyen: I'm glad we got to have a brownbag amidst all the chaos and that it was a really relaxing day with great weather to just sprawl out on the lawn and relax!

John Song: Counting down the days until you come back and we can go to Magcaf properly and binge on all the great, greasy food past 3am. Come back to us soon; We miss you!

Johnny Vo: Reach out to me if you ever need any tips on Accenture and if you're just interested in general about learning more!

Jonathan Cheung: Don't count on me for advice on MIS course load work tbh. I can give you sound advice on everything else MIS related, but I honestly don't remember 375 being that hard...I promise!!

Jonathan Fan: Sometimes when I'm really missing Europe I open up your album of photos from Vienna and look through them. You're super talented at taking photos and you take some really amazing shots!

Josephine Lin: I'm not sure if I've told you this before, but you have a really soothing voice!

Josh Hu: I'm glad you thought your prank was funny and even I have to admit the timing of it was pretty good. Give yourself a well deserved pat on the back for that one: P

Julia Hoang: Hey bunny Julia! I'm really glad we had a chance to sit down and talk at cream whiskers! I have full confidence that you will be able to convey what you really want to tell

Kang Park: I'm really glad I got to meet you this year! I'm sad I wasn't more active in our family, but let's grab a brown bag sometime and talk? :D

Karen Shang: I really enjoyed our one-on-one! It was a good conversation and I trust you to make the decision to find what you really want by yourself.

You're a smart girl! Kevin Duong: Kristeen Chan: Hey pretty girl – Good luck on graduating and everything that comes after that. You're super talented and you deserve to achieve all your dreams and more! Good luck!

Krystina Diao: I never told you this, but you're my favorite media director. Now please put down that camera and join in on the activities once in a while. Wu-bang! needed your strength during tug-o-war during family field day!!

Liam Kelly: WASN'T PERRY'S THE GREATEST???
Now that the "steak" part of the deal is done, I suppose we still have to figure out a time to meet for the massage part, haha.

Lisa Feng: I still want to thank you for helping me limp through the metro stations in New York, haha. I'm also super sorry for rolling on top of you when you, me and Sam shared a bed u____u Macy Huang: Hey qt! I really enjoyed how much Macy Huang: Hey qt! I really enjoyed how much time and effort you put into Academic GM and all the workshops this year!

Nick Bhattacharya: Long live pizza purgatory! I still sort of can't believe we were almost roommates If you apply the theory of multiverses, there's some alternate universe where we are roommates. Isn't that a scary thought?:P

Nina Tanuwidjaja: See Line. Satancat_sticker.jpg
Paul Nguyen: Will the real External Director please stand up?! Your antics at that family GM and at family field day had me cracking up so bad.
Phillip Yoon: I'm proud of everything you do.
Except your puns. Stay sharp, stay creative, oh yeah and go the fto sleep.

Purav Doshi: It's totally okay to love sweats!! That wasn't the point of my post LOL. Your entire panel for officer-for-a-day was pretty adorable haha.

Rebecca Fu: Explaining the concept of "pre-gaming" to you and Emily was simultaneously hilarious and adorable. You two are so cute!!

Regan Wang: Accenture buddies!! The great experience of sketchy street parking and one-way streets almost had us haha. Thank goodness for valet right? :P Thank you for being understanding to my rather peculiar situation and I'm sorry for any awkward moments you have to suffer through in our future Accenture events.

Robert Ma: I'm looking forward to facing the puzzles in panic room next weekend! I can't help but feel like we're gonna get trolled hard core by Liz LOL. Thank you for all your help and to being really open to talking to me throughout this year!

Russell Kan: I can't wait until I have enough free time to finish up Pokemon and keep breeding for shinies haha.

Samantha Choi: Sammm you're so cute sometimes idk what to do. Your reactions are always super on point and I'm really sorry that we haven't had the chance to grab lunch or talk since coming back from NYC!

Sang-Yop Kwon: As I'm typing this, you're snoring lightly in the corner of the 5th floor with your backpack plastered over the top of your face. As funny as it is, I'm nice enough to not take a photo, unlike you!! I also wanna say "please take better care of yourself next year," but I probably said something to that effect last year as well...this year I'm gonna try for something more like: "just...go to sleep" and pray that it'll be more effective, haha.

Sangbin Kwon: You know it's a good day when both Phillip and I come out to a family event LOL. Sorry for being such a lackluster little sib this year, I wish I could have supported you guys more.

Sonia Hedge: Soniaaaaa < 3 I Stephen Zhu: Thank you so much for the sandwich during family field day and always being open to talk when I have something on my mind!

Steven Yen: I really enjoyed our random talk throughout all of campus! You're a super funny kid who is really dedicated to what you're passionate about. It made me really happy to hear that NYCFT had such a profound impact on you and that above all, you had a really great time!

Sumin Cha: It was so much fun cooking crawfish with you and the rest of admin for alumni weekend! The distance thing was sort of a bummer, but you saved the day with your car, seriously!! Thank you for all your hard work, our website and all looks

Sylvia Yang: The entire ABSA flickr page is so beautiful and I can't thank you and the other media directors enough for all the hard work and dedication you guys put forth to make it all possible!

Taehon Kim: For the first time in five years, the GM room is going to be missing one of its most dedicated and most passionate members. We're going to miss you so much and there really aren't words to convey how much you've done for ABSA. Take care of yourself!

Tessie La: Hey, sexy girl~ Thank you for being so open to my random intrusions into your dorm room. It's not my fault, blame Maria!!

Tiffany Weng: You are so clutch at basketball! I love how you hustle for it and how plainly aggressive you get!

Tri Nguyen: I admire your dedication to our IM teams! Coming out to play Frisbee on your birthday and all!

Trini Tran: Great job on EOS! I hope when you're reading this, you take your time to look around and see all that your hardwork has amounted to. EOS is a lot of work, but you guys made it through!

Zack Kingsak: Nina and I are so jelly at your going to a Big Bang concert!! We still need to get you your steak-massage deal once you get back to the US!
Zulian Tjuatja: Julia and I really didn't mind you droping in on our talk at Cream Whiskers! We enjoyed the insight and everything you had to say!

Anna Chong

Alex Zou: Alpha Alex? Sure, I'll call you that for once. You're such a little jokester, but I'm glad I had you in my branch this year. All those moments you tried to undermine my rule. I'll let you be "alpha" just for today. Enjoy it little buddy.

Caroline Lee: Oh my Caroline.. This year would definitely have been a lot less spicy without you in my branch. My favorite memories of you are all in my phone.. heh. I have so much blackmail on you, so you better still hang out with me next year. Helena Shi: Ah my little angelic singer! You have been such a silly and bright light in our branch! I love how open you are about your bodily functions around everyone.. — I'm glad I got to experience NYCFT with you and explore such a fun city with some of my favorite people.

Kevin Duong: Kev.. we can't hang out anymore. Every time I'm with you I end up eating a lot of Chick Fil A and Cream Whiskers. Our wallets are dying. But, thanks for letting me share those moments with you, just eating and studying! I wouldn't have wanted it any other way.

Wanted it any other way. Sang-Yop Kwon: Yopyop! It's been quite a battle for you this year with school, but I'm glad I have you in one piece. I've really enjoyed getting to know you more this year, and I'm excited for you next year! I know you'll do great, buddy. Don't be afraid to reach out to me because I will always be here. Ok?

Tiffany Weng: My sweet sweet Tiff! I've gotten to know you a lot better this year, and I'm glad that you chose to be in my branch. You're such a kind and happy person, but I'm thankful to have been with you through times when you were a human! Thanks for always being a dose of sugar in my day!

Branch: I'm so incredibly grateful and blessed to have been given directors like you all to serve this year! I know that all of you are coming away from this year with different experiences, but I hope that you have truly enjoyed your time in ABSA. I love you guys a lot! If you guys don't respond to my texts next year, I'll hunt you down.

Alec Tom: Thanks for giving us that $20 you found! You've given us a lot of support, and I hope to see you in ABSA next year!

Alexander Hui: I enjoyed having a brown bag with you and getting to know you better! Btw, did you ever return Jason's batteries?

Amanda Shang: Every time I see you I think about your dance move with the legs. I do a pretty good imitation of you! Also, you cute.

Andrew Huang: You aren't here, but you can have space here.

Andrew Tran: Thanks for getting me cereal even though I didn't pick it up for like forever! I lived off of that box for a long time.

Arlene Cai: I miss seeing you around! Don't forget about me.. Play with me too!

Andra Field: You have the coolest glasses!!!! I'm

Officers:

Jackson Pei: It's been a long year, but an absolute privilege to be serving ABSA with you. At the start of this year, I wasnt sure now I would be working and learning from you because it was so hard to see at first. Little did I know that I would learn the most from you. I can't say enough how much I appreciate your mentorship this year in terms of humility, changing perspectives, and being real. I hope that you had as much fun as I have had working with you this year. We didn't bully you as much this year for your white hairs, but at least I can still tease you for having fat ankles and saying 'shore'. It has been a great ride with you, and you'll be missed. See you again, Captain.

Sabeeha Islam: Sababa, the thug, gangster, and Kit Kat monster. Thanks for making my job this year incredibly easy. We had our rough patches with planning and opinions, but you carried me all the way through. You're insightful, funny, smart, and kind. I'm glad I could have learned from you this year. Thanks for being a legend in ABSA and Executive branch. Startup Simulation and Fall Career Week Remember to rely on others sometimes, and keep yourself sane and healthy. Get more sleep! It's been a long year, and we've come a long way from where we began. I know I have. Catch you later, girl. As'salaam walekum.

Angela Meng: Wow, what a crazy year it's been. I have changed a lot, and it's due to everyone on this panel. You have taught me an important lesson to understand others and to put others before me. Thank you, even if it was done the hard way. Thank you for your compassion in ABSA and how you continue to serve the members the way they need, not the way they want. It is that compassion that I love and hope to grow. Team _ Hits the Fence will never be the same, but I continue to hold those memories close to my heart. From our struggles of directors to distaste of Jimmy John's, it's been a worthwhile ride with you. Thanks girl.

Maria Mai: I hate you. I really do. However, I do like the advice that you and Jackson gave me: "Just make the most out of what you have". I was always blind to something so simple, but I finally have been getting the grasp of it. I could have had the choice to be upset for all the things that we failed at, but that means I could never be happy. It's a choice that I could make, and you taught me that. Thanks for constantly remind for me to watch out for others and be better about stepping on other's toes. I'm dumb, but you've accepted that. I'm growing up though! Let's keep driving to the end, Ms. Popular. Thank you for being on this panel with me and being my friend. Anna Chong: Master Chong, thank you for being the light that you strived to be. In the midst of the darkness, you pushed us to have bigger hearts and softer words. Despite being a year younger than me, you are so much wiser and mature. Ground me. You are nothing short of impressive. Whether it comes to driving, haggling for deals, or grilling Korean barbecue, it's amazing to see what you can do. Take a step back from school and remember to relax in our God. In Galatians 5, God tells us how he has freed us from those chains. Continue to pursue your dreams with the goal of glorifying God! I'll be praying for you. Thanks for everything, Richie. Kelvin Nguyen: Sir Nguyen, thank you. I don't Kelvin Nguyen: Sir Nguyen, thank you. I don't know how else to say it. You were our anchor, right or wrong, and you continued to bring us together. A mixture of stubborn and wise, it was comfortable to look to you and know that there was someone whose character never changed or could be questioned. I can't say I agree with you the way you ran your branch, but am proud of how you stuck to your purpose regardless of criticism. It's been a long, rough ride, but all the better that you were alongside for the ride. Thanks for dealing with my driving, holding onto my key, ignoring my whining, and making me smile. Years down the line, I hope that I can still be around to learn from you. I'm thankful I had this journey with you.

Jennifer Yang: You're leaving far too soon. Meeting you last year, I remember wondering how such a small, cute girl could be so composed. It's been good to see that you're not always. In fact, you're quite thoopid and derp. This year, I had one heck of a time working with you this year. From our many conversations in the car to our hangry jibes, I have made countless memories with you. Thanks for helping me BS funding applications forty five minutes before it was due and choosing the better looking director gifts at Katy Mills. It's our last ride together, but I'll see you again, right? Enjoy yourself, but come back because you'll be missed. Congratulations on graduating and thank you for the fun and smiles.

Alex Hui: Congratulations on Financial VP, Alex! We've come a long way since the beginning of the year, and I think you learned something...just kidding, you've learned a lot. Continue to learn and grow, because there is always more that we can do and learn. You said that you want to continue the culture that I instilled, so I'm going to put that on you for next year. I'll be watching, so don't slack! Thanks for teaching about what it means to be a good mentor and VP. Feel free to rely on me whenever you need, man. I'll be here for you.

Alex Zou: Alpha? No, you're definitely a beta. You're just lucky that I'm a nice alpha. It's been a great time getting to know you this year. From your silly pitches for volunteering to your grocious nagging, I've had a ton of fun being around you. I wish you would let me touch your abs more though, hahahaha. You said you have a lot that you want to pursue, so I'm going to be pushing you next year to pursue them. Don't take a backseat next year! Our conversation at Tatsuya Ramen was awesome – let's do it again. Catch you later, Alex. Enjoy HK!

Amanda Shang: When I first heard you were in RDC, I thought you were too cool for me. Thankfully, I found out that you were just an awkward turtle who sometimes tries to be sexy. You have made an amazing change from the fall semester, and it's been a joy to see your dedication and love for ABSA grow Thanks for really enjoying our hotpot and bringing Exectial back together. Continue being weird, because that's what you do best!

Amy Xin: You are so multi-talented, it's crazy. You make absolutely beautiful works of art, you make balloon animals, and you're a basketball pro! Luckily, your weirdness makes it easier to get along with you despite how legit you are. Thanks for helping me, and all of ABSA, with all the extra contributions you have made this year. I hope to see you be even more active in ABSA next year. Can't wait to see what you want to do, but I know it'll be great! Been great getting to know you better, gir!!

Andrew Huang: Baby, I miss you...come back! I hope that my work this year is satisfactory. If not, you can call me out again like you always do. However, I think I'm a little bit more prepared this time around.

Austin Anderson: It's been a long ride, Austin.

When I first met you Austin, I wasn't sure how to feel. It wasn't often that there was a person bigger and taller than me, and I had to work with you! Thanks for continuing to be a great presence in ABSA. I'm glad you were able to carry your heart and funkiness from administrative branch last year over to this year. Your dedication to us, from being a big sib of Interrobang to a careers directors that endlessly delivered our food, is sincerely appreciated. Bowen Cai: Bowen, thank you for being such a hyped big sib this year. The OGs has never been able to mimic your powerful, raw chant from the first family GM. Thanks for being the driving force of the OGs and balancing SCMSO and ABSA at the same time. We need to sit down for coffee again! Brian Kim: Hey loserrrrr! That's right, I'm going to be mean...just kidding! Hey, it's been freaking great getting closer to you second semester. From our first man-to-man chat at Tan My to our following times chilling with each other, I've found an attachment to you. While I'll still pick on you for your "bae times" over "bro times", I know that you still have my back whenever I need it. Thanks for supporting me when I was low, and celebrating with me when I did well. Keep coming to me for advice if you want! I'll be all ears for you, bro. Thanks for everything this year. Caroline Lee: It was fun getting to know you this year! I think our most memorable experience definitely has to be that time that we spent at karaoke together. You are a great rapper, and don't let Anna tell you otherwise!! Just be yourself!! Haha, slightly kidding. I hope that you continue to be involved with ABSA and AACM at the same time next year. Don't forget to continue pursuing God amongst all that you do. Galatians 5:22-25.

Chris Liu (freshman): Hey, you're a pretty cool freshman! Glad that I got to see you often at speaker series and what not. We need to gang up and bully Alex more, if you know what I mean...

Christine Chu: Oy, ex-co. Where you been at? We're so close to each other, and yet I feel like I don't see you nearly enough. Anyways, thanks for being someone that I can be weird with, like waddling towards the drag with a triple chin face. Glad you were a big sib this year. Keep releasing your weird vibe to everyone!

Chris Wong: It's been quite the journey, bro. I remember seeing you around last year and wondering who you were. I heard you were smart, but you were always in the back seat. When you asked to be big sib this year, I seriously questioned your dedication, but am so glad to be proven incredibly wrong. Thank you for being a big sib of Ohana, one of the best families out there. Not better than Big Booty Bunch, but close! You have given to your little sibs unconditionally, and it can be seen by the love your little sibs have for you. Thanks for balling with me, for contributing to finance team, and for supporting ABSA. You're going to be missed. See you again, Chris.

Dora Cheng: Theodora, I agree. Your name is hard to spell...thus, I chose to use Dora instead of Theodora! Thanks for being such a funny friend. Your spontaneous personality, from wanting a white male who spoke Cantonese to picking up organic pecans off the ground, has been absolutely infectious. Around you, I have smiles and laughter. Thanks for taking me in and for hearing me out when I needed it. I'm going to miss seeing you around, girl. Edward Liao: Hey Ed!! Thanks for being such a fun guy to be around this year. You're an excellent mixer, and I look forward to whatever else that you can make up in the future. Sorry about giving you questionable coolers for you to use this year. Thank you so much for taking the time to bleach it and clean it for us. Let's continue to have fun next year, in or out of finance team!

Elvis Yang: Do you remember the first time that we met? It was at ABSA camping our freshman year, and we were on the cliff edge together. Sitting on the rocks, we stared at the stars and just talked the night away. I was the weird one, the one who wore the hot pink shirt and hopped into the lake at 3 AM. However, I'm glad that you still considered me a friend and even gave me a place to stay while I waited for graduation. Thanks for being a great guy and I hope that you can enjoy yourself out of college. We need to keep balling, because I'm slowly getting the shot down! I bet I'll beat you soon enough.

Enoch Tsai: I didn't know that you were a fireman! Just kidding, but you are still so much more than I expected. Goalie for soccer, Frisbee handler, and hardcore biker – what can you not do? Thanks for hanging around ABSA and being a fun guy to hang around. Come out some more!

Eric Ma: Eric, Eric, Eric, I am still expecting you to make the first move. Remember my bet? I need you to beat Alex, and I have full confidence that you can once you choose to! Take the initiative and help us win. Regardless, thanks for hanging around ABSA this year even if your friend group lies largely with Epic. Your presence was important for us, and your branch definitely looks to you as an older brother. Catch you around!

Ethan Ho: Ethan, I sincerely apologize for having to cook the crawfish outside of your apartment. It means a lot that you were willing to deal with it and clean the equipment even after your event. Excellent spring alumni weekend! Thanks for letting me be a part of it. Deuteronomy 15:10.

Felicia Zhang: Mademoiselle, thank you for accepting to co-lead with me next year. I hope that I can meet your expectations! Other than that, thanks for being a great big sis. I know I brought the group down at Family Field Day, but I'm glad that you carried us for the rest of it! Thanks for being a great small group leader this year! 2 Timothy 1:7.

Florence Sung: Flooooo, I apologize so much for always having my shoutouts late. Thanks for always being friendly and chill with me! Also, thanks for always producing great informers for ABSA!! Hope to see you around still next year!

Ginnie Ko: Ginnie, you totally ditched me for basketball. Next thing I know, you're going to start playing without me again. I guess that's ok, since you own me every time in basketball. I really wish I could be as good at basketball as you are. I wish I could also be as smart as you are, MPA Genius. Thanks for being cool as usual. I need to hang around your room more often again.

Hannah Kang: Hi, scary one. Yes, I said it!! You are still quite scary. Thanks for being my big sis and feeding me food. I always like food. Although you bailed on the second time, thanks for being a Tough Mudder with me!! Had a blast watching how legit you were. I hope that you can pray for me as I lead a SG next year and I hope that you can come out to support! Thanks for your prayers! Romans 9:31. Helena Shi: Poop.

Hoai Truong: Hoaistory, why are you so cool? 8) We still need to go to do Tough Mudder together!! Ima Linzag: Did you know that you are amazing? I bet you didn't. I doubted it for a second when you ignored me outside Xian, but I knew that you are still an incredible person. Thank you for stepping up to be the publicity committee head this past year. You have done an amazing job and been a great teacher. Also, thank you for working with me and my branch on our events and doing all the hard work for us. Thanks for everything Ima!! Janet Zhou: Hi master, thank you for taking me in my freshman year. You believed in this awkward engineer who didn't really know what was going on, even when I didn't believe in myself. I was the empty pot, with no value shining through but honesty You are the light and rock for many, and I'll still look to you for the wisdom and heart that I can't get enough of.

Throughout my college career, I hope that I have made you proud and happy in your choice. Although we haven't crossed paths in JQL in a while, I will continue to remember the silly memories of me asking for friends. I am going to continue to grow and mentor others, hopefully in a similar way of how you did it for me. Regardless, I want you to know that I will miss you. Thanks for being on this journey with me. From starving me to teasing me, thanks for everything, master. As I take over for SGL next year, I hope that you can pray for my walk with God. Philippians 4:13.

Jany Xu: Jany, girl, sometimes I feel like you are hopeless. It's so easy to tease and make fun of you. However, it's also hard to deny that you have been like a loving mother for me and the panel. Thanks for watching out for me and letting me cook for us that one time. I promise that I'll cook for Apartment 318 at my place soon! Don't forget to take care of yourself, or I'm going to come take care of you! I'm going to miss you!!

Jason Wu: I'm going to miss my fellow partner for Jason Sandwiches. The time of the Jason's are leaving, and it is sad to have to be the last one out. Thanks for being such a great member every year and having a great smile for everyone. You'll be missed! Come back often!

Jeff Su: Thank you for the help that you have given me and ABSA every year. From SG to VP to Big Sib, you have been a person worth learning from. When snowstorms cancelled both Scoring Careers and Dallas CFT, I asked you how you were doing, and you were strong. You were made strong through your faith, and I can't stop admiring that. I pray that you can catch that same strength again as you move out from college. Regardless, thanks for being you – unhygienic, gross, and sleepy. Thanks for everything. Congratulations on graduating, and come back often if you can! See you again, brother. Romans 8:31.

Jessica McCarthy: For a second, I was going to write you a goodbye message, but you're not leaving yet! You should...you're pretty old. Just kidding! It's been an absolute pleasure getting to know you better this year. It's been fun bullying you on your height and messing with your Asian knowledge. Still, I agree that you can be more Asian than me sometimes. You're fun and bubbly, and I hope that we can hang out some more next semester before Jessie Chan: Duckling, you need to stop being productive and just let me hang out with you more! I need to swing by your room like in the past and plug your toilet every so often. Or maybe I'll just jump on your bed and beat up Snoopy? Just kidding! But still, let's hang out more often and you can be lame to my face at least. And wear my duck socks more often! It's been great getting to know you this year, girl. Thanks for everything that you've done for ABSA! limmy Nguven: limmmmmmmmm, we need to get a group for feels talk again.

John Song: Miss you bro.

Johnny Vo: Big butt.

Josephine Lin: What up girl? I always try to bully you, but it simply does not work on you hahaha Thanks for being a great person. I look forward to working with you next year in AACM and ABSA! Matthew 28:19.

Julia Hoang: I try to bully you, but then you make me feel bad immediately after...thanks a lot Julia!! You're mean. Just kidding, you're a pretty sweet girl. It's been fun getting to know you better this year. You're bubbly and awesome. Have some more confidence in yourself, like in driving my car! You are a great family director, and I think the family program partially speaks to that. I speak for the rest, hehe. Thanks for everything that you have done this year! Kristy Liang: Where you been at? Hmmm? Haha, regardless, thanks for all that you do for me. It's been a tumultuous year for me, but thanks for hearing me out sister. I really appreciate all that you have done for me! Matthew 7:8.

Kevin Duong: Blessssss.

Krystina Diao: Krusty, I need you to acknowledge your nickname a little bit more often...I also am going to need you to acknowledge that I don't actually want to be a part of the boobs. It's cause I'm part of the butts. Thanks for being a media director and being a cool person overall! Let's play League together some day and I can be mean to you!! Lisa Feng: Little one, where have you been? Don't let BHP consume you! There's more to life than your BHPuns and BHPhun. Thanks for being a fart queen and letting me bully you all the time. I have had a great time getting to know you this year. I told you - you have made an incredible impact on me, even if you don't believe it. Where I am now all started with Chase Oaks, and that's thanks to you. I know we haven't done a good job keeping up with our book club, and I apologize for not being stricter with our accountability. However, I'm glad that we can still meet up and let loose with each other. Hopefully, I can achieve a similar environment next year as I lead a SG. Be a part of it? I'll be there for you whenever you need me, little minion. Feel free to rely on me for help or prayers whenever you need it. Thanks for being there for me and for being legit as a director, Jeremiah 29:11.

Lucia Hua: Master chef Lucia, do you want to feed me a little bit more often? I see you cooking all the time, but it never seems to ever to go into my stomach! Thanks for being a cool cat, wearing funky pants, doing funky exercises, and being a strong believer for me to follow. I know that there is a lot that you want to do to continue pursuing your faith, and I hope that I can help support you do whatever you want to do! It's been great getting to know you this year. We should run together more often, but you should train a little bit more to catch up to me. that means getting off that silly elliptical!

Macy Huang: Hey duckling, where have you been this entire semester? I thought we agreed that we would work together, but I'm not quite sure if you still do work...! Regardless, it's been fun watching you participate in various events for your Chinese dance and watching you dance with amazing grace. Let's hang out more often!!

Mickey Li: Mr. Dodgeball Carry, it has been a great journey getting to know you better. You are an incredible person with a crazy drive, able to balance multiple positions and still be able to get plenty of sleep. I wish I had your time management skills back when I was a freshman. I don't even have it now. Don't forget to let yourself relax in God's presence more. More than that, don't forget to glorify God in all that you do. Pray often and continue to center your life on him. I am excited to see where you decide to go in life, and I hope that I can continue to be a part of that. Thanks for letting me stay at your place and sharing stories with me. Also, sorry about the smell! Proverbs 16:3.

Nina Tanuwidiaia: MedSprings was not a fun experience. It started off fun, but it got a lot worse really fast. Never again!! Just kidding, I'll always be there for you whenever you need me to, and I hope you know that. I've appreciated how much closer we have grown this year, and how we had those late night runs to 888. Feel free to come over whenever you want and eat my candy. I'll be sure to hold a stash of gummies for you. Regardless, thank you for all that you have done for me this year. I hope that re can continue to grow closer next year, because I definitely need someone to bully me about losing beanies and buying cigarettes.

Phillip Yoon: Hey ABSA model, do you mind if we start using your face as ABSA's new publicity? Purav Doshi: Congratulations on finance team co-head! I see many great things coming from you, and I'm excited to see what you have in store for Russell Kan: What up, fellow engineer? Thanks for choosing my branch and trusting me. I know that it wasn't everything that you had expected, but I could not have come as far as I have without you. You have been a great director, kind to me, friendly to everyone, and helpful whenever you were free to do so. I am so blessed to have met you this year and had the opportunity to learn from you. I apologize for being a rebel during Resistance, but I know you redeemed yourself through bullying me in brawl. We'll be sure to have more hangouts like that in the future! I hope that we can continue to grow closer next year! Thanks again for everything, Russell.

Robert Ma: Hi CEO, can I sleep on your couch? It doesn't seem like I'll need it in the near future, but I'll continue to ask just to make sure. Thanks for trusting in me and agreeing to disciple me. It hasn't exactly worked out perfectly, but I hope you can see improvement being made in me. I'm not sure how we're planning to handle our meetings once you've graduated, but I know that I want to continue learning from you. You have been incredibly responsive to all my questions and I have learned so much more about my faith through you. God has blessed me to have met you, and I hope that I can make you proud as I pursue SGL next year. Thank you for investing in me and being a loving supporter. Let's do more together when we're not as busy!

Samantha Choi: Again, burrito monster, it has been a pleasure getting to know you this year. Thanks for everything that you have done for ABSA this year. It's always funny to see how chill you are about everything. Test tomorrow? Movie first. It's hilarious! Be sure to take care of yourself more though - the years only get harder from here on out! Thanks for being a great director and friend. I look forward to what you have in store for ABSA next year!

Sang-Yop Kwon: Hello, fellow warrior. Thanks for convincing me to wade through treacherous waters and embarrass myself in front of a family. I am still waiting on you to become a professional tennis play er. I guess that can wait though, since ABSA comes first. Congratulations on becoming External VP! While I am scared for you at some points, I have full confidence that you will be a great VP because you are a great person, Funny, sincere, motivated, and kind, you have been an absolute joy to get to know better this year. I hope that you we can continue to grow closer next year and you can find a friend and brother in me. Thanks for everything that you do for ABSA and for your friends.

Sangbin Kwon: I love youuuuuu. You're a pretty great big sib by the way. Thanks for everything! Stephen Zhu: Pops, you know I'm going to miss you. Although our relationship might not change much since I tend to talk to you more on Facebook than in real life, I know that it will be sad to not be able to make fun of you in person anymore. I'm glad that you still let me bully you about your weight despite being one of the finest bodies in ABSA. I'm glad you let me pick on everything about you! I know that we had a rocky love last year, but I hope that you can see that I have matured past that. You can judge however much. Take care of yourself more often, and just relax in the presence of God. I'll continue to pray for you and your purpose for this life. Step back and appreciate all that God has given to us! I'm going to miss you, pops. Since freshman year, you have dealt with my spontaneity, my mistakes, and my whining. Thanks for being there for me and having my back (almost) every time. You're leaving far too soon. I'll keep bothering you somehow, but it really won't be the same. Love ya pops. Matthew 28:19.

Steven Yen: Heyyyy weirdo. Why do I say that? I don't know, but I know you'll let me! Thanks for being a great guy and solid media director this year. It has been great getting to know you this year. We need to hang out more often! Sylvia Yang: Sleepy Sylvia, please stop sleeping!

Haha, but besides that, thanks for being a great person this year and an excellent media director. It's been a joy getting to know you and making fun of how ratchet you can be. I look forward to what you will continue to do in the future with all the photography skills that you will be carrying forward! Tiffany Weng: Tiffany, thanks for your positive attitude, even if I do make fun of your grammar... ranned? Runned? Ran. Hahaha, I hope that you continue to be a positive influence in ABSA next year! Veronica Sun: Hey girl, you're super sweet. Thanks for swiping me without a second thought. I apologize for almost stealing your ID!! Thanks for being such a great girl! I wish I got to know you better this year, but join my SG next year and we can continue getting to know each better! Looking forward to what you have in store for next year!

Vivian Wang: Hey, you little troll! Good job on alumni weekend this past semester. Thanks for letting me help cook the crawfish even though I can be a questionable cook... I promise that I'll cook that meal for you some time next year at the latest too! If you trust me, I guess. Thanks for being a cool person!

Yoon Lee: I can't believe you took in that crawfish!! Thanks for being an unrelentingly amusing guy! Zulian Tjuatja: Master chef Zulian, I am waiting for more delectable pictures for me to drool at...

Ohana: Thank you all so much for making my last year at UT so memorable. From playing PIU or eating at 888 or even the karaoke events, everything has been so much fun for me, Chris, Regan, and Jenney. I'm really sad that this year will be my last year with ya'll because I have gotten to know a lot of you so well. It still is a bit strange thinking I may never see va'll again so I'll really cherish the time I spent with everyone. Oh and in case I forgot to mention it before, I'm moving to Florida so I may actually never see any of ya'll again...like for real. I don't really have any other advice to give you (unless you need like Nutrition advice) besides try to make sure you're eating well and try to get along with your siblings when I'm gone. And like your actual parents I'm just gonna remind ya'll to make sure to call/text/message me every now and then so I can make sure you're ok. I really thought of ya'll as my real family and I love all of you EQUALLY. OH and really cherish the time you have left in college! It really hit me hard that I was graduating this semester and I'm still a bit depressed. Yup...the real world's gonna be lonely.. =/ Ohana means family and family means no one gets left behind or forgotten..and I really won't forget any of ya'll! Well at least I hope so...I'm getting kinda old so my memory isn't as good as it used to be. Alex Au: I'm a bit worried about you...I would suggest a DASH diet because it seems your sodium levels are quite high! But thanks for being such a great little these past 2 years. I'm gonna miss watching you, Regan, Chris, and Sean ignore me while playing PAD when we're together...and try to be nicer to Vivian and Sean, Scrub. Amanda Shang: Hey!!! So we never got to do our brown bag but that's okay because I know how busy you are. I think it's really cool that you're in RDC too. But thanks for being part of the family! :) Amy Xin: I still think when you talk about stuff, you're very sarcastic even when you don't mean to be. But it was fun having you as my little sib. Thanks for talking to me when I needed a pep talk and stuff, even though you wouldn't respond til like the next day sometimes. Oh and I thought it was cool we have the same taste in music and you're super creative.

Andrew Tran: Hey roomie. Getting real tired of you blaming me for the dishes...lol jk. But yeah hopefully by now we'd have played tennis. And if we didn't, I'm sure you'd probably beat me anyway. Thanks for being a fun roommate!

Annie Truong: It's a shame you've been too busy to come out to a lot of the family events this year but it was fun having you part of Ohana!

Anthony Qi: I don't see you around ABSA anymore =/ I think I see you in I2 more often LOL.

Audra Fields: Our friendship has definitely changed from when we met when I was too awk to hug you. But look at us now! We can talk about stuff and eat donuts! Even though you're basically best friends with everyone except me, I'm gonna miss you a lot. Austin Anderson: Hey roomie! Surprisingly I don't see you that much...it's probably because I sleep most of the time. But it's been really fun being roommates and I'm gonna be sad I might not have a roommate as chill as you in the future.

Brian Kim: You did a good job being a family director this year! You're always so nice to me whenever Brian Liew: Brian...you're too buff. You beat basically everyone on the table worth beating at Tap House...using only your non-dominant hand! Oh and thanks for hosting our Smash Bros mixer! It was great to finally meet you even though I was your big sib last year.

Cao Truong: I'm going to remember how we went to all of the tables during Alumni Weekend and ate all of the crawfish.

Chris Liu: It's always great to see you sorta-neighbor. It's too bad we never got to hang out more =/ Chris Wong: Hey co-big. Congrats on graduating!

It was a lot of fun big sibbing with you this year and everyone in Ohana is gonna be so sad that Grandpa Chris is leaving. I'm definitely gonna miss you talk about Tamadra and Ronia and berry dragons and stuff

Christine Chu: We didn't really talk much this year but it's always good to see you every now and then. Good job with Woohoo!

Cindy Kuang: You definitely disappeared from ABSA this year. I literally only saw you twice this entire year. But I think you're graduating so congrats... if you're graduating. If not...awk. Dan Lubis: Dan!!! You're always so busy now and I haven't seen you in so long =/ But thanks for being one of my littles in HBC and Ohana!

Daniel Wang: I haven't seen you in a while, but thanks for being one of my littles this year!

Diane Sun: I think it's really cool that you started coming out more this semester. Thanks for participating with Secret Santa and all of our other events this year!

Edward Liao: Even though we aren't co-bigs anymore, it's always good to see you. Thanks for always taking me to go eat Indian food and that one time to drink margaritas!

Elvis Yang: Sorry our mixer wasn't really a mixer... my fault. But you look like you have a really good family!

Emily Fu: Our brown bag last semester was really fun! I like how we talk about puppies and the chance that we'd lose the puppy in a cereal box and stuff. Enoch Tsai: It's too bad we don't live in the same apartment anymore, but I still come over to your

Eric Allen: I remember I came into college and you had such a big presence in ABSA. Now I'm about to graduate and you're still in school for a little longer =/

Eric Ma: I think it's awesome that I see you at parties and stuff. Don't tell people that I let you drink when you're not supposed to...shhhhhh Ethan Ho: Thanks for coming to our karaoke event! And good job with Alumni Weekend both semesters!

Florence Sung: I swear my name is Jason. It's just spelled 'Q-U-A-N'

Gary Hao: Hey Gary! Thanks for being part of Ohana this semester! :)

Grace Liu: Grass...I'm not going to forget that comment about my jacket...I even bought you fries... still hurts. But yeah at the time I'm writing this we still had not gotten to run for about a month. It's ok though. Thanks for being part of Ohana!

Ginnie Ko: Hey Ginnie! You're doing an awesome iob with the IM teams this year!

Hannah Kang: So remember how I said last year that when I look at you I only look like I hate you? I lied...jk...I think. But I haven't really talked to you lately which is a shame because I'm graduating. Oh well. Happy graduation to you in advance for next year.

Helena Shi: Our brown bag this semester was a lot of fun! Even though we didn't get to go to Kinsolving, I still enjoyed it a lot!

Hoai Truong: Thanks for being part of Ohana this year! It's always great to see you around Mccombs and ABSA!

Ima Linzag: Ima you're so legit...you're so artistic and you're in charge of your own committee?? Wow I can't believe we've been in the same family for the past 3 years. Sad that I'm leaving and I won't get to see vou anvmore =/

Jackson Pei: You've been such an awesome president this year and you really made ABSA into such a great organization.

Jane Zeng: I'm glad I got to tell you my opinions about EOS during our brown bag. It was a lot of fun talking to someone about ABSA every once in a while. But I still remember you ate like ¼ of my pizza at Austin's Pizza that one time.

Jany Xu: I'm glad we got to catch up this semester after not being able to see you in a while. I'm really gonna miss being mean to you since like...Freshman year. But I still think you're a really great friend to Jason Guo: Apparently you still tell people that I eat a lot but I really don't think I don't. But it's really sad that I'm graduating and I won't be able to talk to you anymore. I still see you as one of the freshman I met 3 years ago.

Jason Wu: Thanks for being such a great roommate these past 2 years! Remember how you said that I was gonna find a gf before you...yeah I hate you. Jeannette Tang: Even though you don't come out to events very much...I still see you at my apartment way too often. I guess it's ok to see you and I'll sorta miss you when I leave. Just a little.

Jeff Su: You always look so tired and stressed. But thanks for being such a great friend these past few Jeffrey Han: I'm really sorry it took me so long to add you to our family page. But it's ok if you wanted to come to our events too;) Just don't tell Nina and Jenney Ling: Biggest boy magnet ever. Mama Jenney, thanks for being one of my co-bigs with me this year. It's always nice that you make so much food for us, give us a study spot, or be someone great to talk to. Even though you get mad at me a lot. But up more pictures of Chris and I around your room. Regan has too many.

Jennifer Park: It's nice to know that there are other people in ABSA that knows the struggles of Natural Science. If you stay in it, it's worth it! Sorta...just take your PharmTech exam.

Jessica McCarthy: I don't see you too often any more, but whenever I see you I feel like all we talk about is how old we are.

Jimmy Nguyen: You're so passionate about ABSA and it's really refreshing. I remember how you stayed up til 4AM during OU weekend to karaoke just because you love singing so much. It was really fun having you a part of Ohana this year!

John Chen: It's nice to have you come out to our events even though you're not officially part of our family. But I'm actually serious when I say that you're scary when you play racquetball.

Johnny Vo: I think it's really awesome that my first brown bag this year was also my first brown bag last year! It's nice to have all the Garland people in ABSA.

Julia Hoang: You're a really awesome family director! Thanks for being so receptive of our ideas during the Big Sib meetings.

Julio Maldonado: I haven't seen you this year. But I heard you joined Elvis's family instead of mine.. ouch. Jk but it was great knowing you in ABSA.

Kelvin Nguyen: You have such an interesting branch. But thanks for letting me crash your branch hang out that one time. Even though it was because ya'll needed my wii. But I'm really going to miss you and all the things you do when I graduate.

Klevrin Sitohang: It was great catching up with you that one time in the 3rd floor of Mccombs that Ken Chen: "What's up Daddy!" That's how I knew you were going to be a good little sib. Thanks for being such an awesome little sib this semester and test subject when I needed your diet for my assignment. I can test your nutrient composition for the week when you give me your list.

Laura Yang: You were an awesome team member for APR! We all know that the Museum room was obviously better.

Liam Kelly: What's up neighbor! It's always great to see you everywhere. But it looks like ABSA is going to lose 2 more Garland people this year =/

Linh Dao: It's always great seeing you every now and then. Sorry I don't say hi when I see you sometimes...it's because I don't have my contacts in. Lisa Liu: Thanks for being a part of Ohana this year!

:) Oh and congrats finding the golden egg!! Luther Fan: Hey I know you're studying abroad so you'll probably not gonna see this yet. But I hope vou're having fun studying abroad and congrats on graduating ahead of time for next semester. Macy Huang: I really enjoyed getting to know you this year! I still think stickers are a little bit dumb. but I hate that I use them so much now...your fault. Thanks for swiping me in to J2 and Kinsolving all of those times! It was a lot of fun talking about Pokemon and stuff the first time we really got to talk:) Maria Mai: It's nice that I got to have you as my family director last year and Internal VP this year. You have a really cool branch and you've been doing a good job this year. Martin Ma: Hey Martin! Thanks for being part of Ohana this year! It was fun having you come out to karaoke and our hot pot event!

Michael Bolls: Even though you're in Hong Kong, it's like you're basically still here since you still vote in our family polls and click going in our events. I hope you're having studying abroad.

Michael Yu: Even though you graduated a year and a half ago, it's awesome that I still got to hang out with you! Thanks for coming out to some of our events and getting to know your Ohana grand children.

Nick Bhattacharva: Remember how we met when we went to Burger Tex after we couldn't eat dinner at Rudy's? Wow that was so long ago. I'm really gonna miss you and your craziness of math. Who am I going to flirt with now??? =/
Nicholas Liu: Thanks for being part of Ohana this year. It was really fun having you come out to benefit nights and karaoke.

Nina Tanuwidjaja: NINA! I'm really really really going to miss you! We were in the same family for 2 years and now you made your own family! I'm so proud! But I'm so sad that I won't get to see you

Paul Nguyen: It's always nice that I get to see you every now and then in ABSA. Too bad we don't get to hang out in the same 'branch' anymore.

Phillip Yoon: You're doing such a good job as the athletics director! Even though you're not my little sib anymore, I'm so proud of you! :) It's always good to talk to you when I can.

Purav Doshi: It's always great to see you at ABSA when I can. I remember that one time we talked about Taco Bell last year and how you were upset they took away the Lava menu.

Rachel Lee: You're such a great singer! I feel even worse about my inability to sing well...but thanks for being a part of Ohana this year!

Regan Wang: Papa Regan! Thanks for co-big sibbing with me this year. It was a lot of fun and you really stood for the belief that "Nobody gets left behind" lot. It's still a bit scary how addicted you are to PAD and how good you are at PIU. But I take joy in the fact you're really meh at Mario Kart.

Rick Kim: Hey Rick! Thanks for being part of Ohana this year!

Robert Ma: You're a pretty cool person. With Epic and ABSA, I'm glad I could always talk to you when Sabeeha Islam: SABEETHUG! You're always so busy. But I love how much work you put into ABSA and it really shows! Thanks for being part of Ohana and making me feel like I'm a good big sib even though the others are way better big sibs. I'm gonna miss vou when I graduate =/

Samantha Choi: Even though you aren't in our family, it's nice that you came to our hot pot and iHOP event and now you know some of our inside jokes about PIU.

Sangbin Kwon: I'm so proud that you're doing an awesome job with your family! It's always great seeing you at ABSA and I hope you enjoy your last Sang-Yop Kwon: CNS people need to stick together...because we understand the struggles that the other majors don't understand. So if I really do cry at EOS...yeah you know why. But good luck with Chemistry and I'm sure you'll be fine. Everything turns out ok...right?

Sean Lin: Thanks for swiping me in to J2! I actually think it's cool that you're part of FSA and still able to come out to family events. But I'll remember you for Pluckers and PAD. Thanks for being such a great little in Ohana and give Jenney a hard time for me when a boy hits on her next year.

Sean Shen: You've been gone for a while and we haven't gotten to duel in such a long time. I may have forgotten how to play. But it's always great to catch up with you and you're such an awesome friend. Thanks for being so nice to me even back in Freshman year when I first joined Epic!

Shufen Wang: I feel like you only talk to me when you need to know something about Nutrition.. but that's ok because nobody ever asks me about it anyway so it's really refreshing! :)

Sonia Hegde: Hey you may not be my little anymore, but I still really enjoy seeing you every now and then! HBC was still awesome though.

Stephanie Kao: I know you're having an awesome time in France so you probably won't see this for a while. But I hope you're having fun and thanks for being such a good friend all of these years. That pep talk you gave me at the end of January when I was about to do that thing was very inspiring. It's funny how much stuff has changed and it's really sad I won't be able to talk to you as much anymore.

Vamsee Ravella: Thanks for being a part of Ohana and going with us to OU weekend! Veronica Sun: Hey freshman buddy! I really am a freshman! I'm just really old at the same time. But I really did enjoy our brown bag and it's ok talking to you when I see you.

Vivian Wang: Thanks for being such an awesome little for Ohana! I guess it was ok doing those weird Just Dance videos in your room...not really. They were embarrassing. Oh and you threw Mr. Pumpkin away so I'm really sad still. And stop scratching. I've already asked people to keep an eye for me to remind you to not scratch when I'm gone. Especially since KDC is becoming independent starting next semester, I'll be relying on you and Brian a lot more than this year, but I know you are capable of more, even more than you think, so let's keep up the good work!

Edward Liao: Low Deuces Sup. I want to start off with a HUUUUUGE THANK YOU for everything you have done to help us WOOHOO! Big sibs out this year. If it wasn't for your advice and support it would've been MUCH more difficult to do this whole big sib thing. Once again thank you, and let's make our last year here worthwhile!

Ginnie Ko: Hey derp. Still a no for cooking you food fyi. Kkthnxbai-

Jason Guo: Hey bae love you lots too <3 Jennifer Park: Hey Jennifer. Yes I have been MIA during the last half of the semester haha. I'll try to be...a lot less MIA next semester LOL. Have a good break and I'll see you next year!

Kang Park: Sup Kang. Thanks for being active in the family as well as always being down to chill. I know this semester might've been difficult to handle, especially with prepping for med school as well as running KUSA while being active in ABSA, but it'll only get better from here man! Have a great summer, and I'll see you next year! Kristeen Chan: Hey Kristeen! Congrats on graduating! (Hopefully this comes out...around that time LOL.) It was great getting to know you more this semester. I know I was very inflexible scheduling wise for events, but thanks for being able to run things without me and being able to make things work even when Christine and I (mostly me) couldn't make it to things. Hope your shoulder feels better, and I'll see you next year~!

Phillip Yoon: Hey buddy. We have survived another semester of late nights in McCombs. Also thanks for always supporting me whether it be in the frontline or backstage. I know I've been MIA a lot near the end of the semester, but we will have more chill time next year for sure. Have a great summer, and come visit Dallas or Austin if you can you'll always have a place to stay here haha. Stay golden MVP.

WOOHOO!: There's just too many of you guys for me to individually make shout-outs for you all, so I grouped it up into one! First off, thank you thank you THANK YOU for making my ABSA experience one I will never forget. Without you all I probably wouldn't have been as active in ABSA as I was this year. And to this semester new members (Min, Tiffany, Julia, Yujin, Timothy, and any that I'm forgetting off the top of my head), I want to apologize first for not being able to offer you the same opportunity in the family program that the littles from first semester had. It was a bad on my part, but also thank you for being positive about our family whenever I did message you about the general family info. Hopefully I haven't ruined your image of ABSA family program, and next semester you will have AWESOME big sibs that will provide you the opportunity to enjoy such a great program the family program is. If in the chance I am a big sib next semester, I hope to be able to offer you what I couldn't this semester! Everybody have a wonderful summer break, and I will see you all next school year!
